

Emma and the other one Addie:

(Well.)

And Mrs. Love separated. And then she married Needham. Charley Needham.

I believe that's the one. --and the Neile on. And Mrs. Vandella.

And Mrs. Barker. That's, they were...

(They had an interesting and prominent family.)

Yes. They did.

(They contributed a whole lot to their people.)

They were likeable people. Then, when they first got there, 'course they lived just across the creek, and they had that store there at Alluwe. Mr. Campbell had his store there. And the Campbell place,

I guess it's still standing. In fact, it was up at Alluwe. The old home, the Journeycake home was just across the creek where the town of Alluwe was. I can remember as a little girl that they always used to have payment. And we'd go up there. There'd be several days paying out. And we'd go. Mama and rest of us and camp out. But one time

I know papa took something out and we went over to Perry and stayed all night. And he married one of the Journeycake girls. The youngest one /word not clear/ Perry. Adelia Perry. She taught music one year.

She was there one year when I was there. Then she married and seems to me she lives over in Arkansas.

BOARDING SCHOOL DAYS

When we went down in the winter, there was so many, we would all visit around in the /words not clear/. They put us in certain districts, you know. The coo-wee-scoo-wee girls...

(Well.)

And 'course we knew 'em all.

(Why, surely.)

But some of the Indian girls, didn't know 'em, you know. Couldn't remember their names.
