

(It takes work, don't it?)

Yeah.

Third Voice: You planted and raised them didn't you?

Like that kraut and chow-chow and things like that green beans. They look to me to make it.

(Well that's good that you still can make it.)

Yes, I still make it. And ever time I make it they give me some so I don't have to make some myself.

(Yeah. You do a lot of canning now?)

I did, but since I've been by myself I don't much canning now.

(Well, I guess we'd better let you go. Or we'll go. (Laughter) And I've enjoyed talking with you.)

Well, I'm glad you all come so I can have somebody to talk to.

(Maybe you can think of some things and we might come again.)

Okay.

(Something about the old Indian days.)

Yes, I think about it.

(The covered wagon days.) (Speaks Creek.)

(End of Interview.)
