Galloway, Old Chillicothe, pp. Zenia, 1834

- Harvey, H. History of the Shawnee Indians. 316 pp. Cincinnati, 1855. This is one of the best sources on Shawnee history and culture before 1855. It is written by a missionary who worked among the Shawnees but who did a great amount of research on Shawnee history. This is an old and rare book. There is a copy of it in the Phillips Collection of the university library.
- Hodge, F. W., ed. Handbook of American Indians North of Mexico. Bulletin 30 of Bureau of American Ethnology. In 2 volumes. 1907 and 1910. Encyclopedic compilation of meterial relating to all Indian tribes of the United States and Canada, including tribal histories, biographical information, on well-known Indian people, and information on material culture and social life and customs. For information on the Shawness, look under such entries as: "Shawness," "Tecumseh," Tenskatawa," "Big Jim," etc. This is a good basic reference work and compilation of information on American Indians up till 1910.

 Should be available in the Public Library and University Library, but probably cannot be checked out as it is considered a reference to books.
- Hent, G. T. The Wars of the Iroquois. 209 pp. Medison 1940. This book has some information on movements of Shawnee groups, and the participation of the Shawnees in the Indian wars.
- Josephy, Alvin M., Jr. "These Lands are Ours..." American Heritage, Vol. 12, No. 5, August 1961.

 This is an article on Tecumseh and his times, and is besed primarily on Glenn Tucker's book, Tecumseh, Vision of Glory (See below on this list). Herever the article is concise and well written, and illustrated with several attractive color pictures and one color map.
- McKenney, T. L., and Hall, J. History of the Indian Tribes of Morth America. 2 volumes. Originally published Philadelphia, 18/8.

 How edition published Edinburgh, 1933.

 This work has color reproductions of paintings of famous Indian leaders, mostly from eastern and midwestern tribes. Also has text consisting of biographical skatches and anedotes of these chiefs. Volume 1 has five Shawnes chiefs: Kishkalwa, Tenskusutawaw, Quatawapea or Colonel Lewis, Psytakootha or Flying Clouds, and Catabecassa or Black Hoof. Their pictures are included along with biographical information on them. This book available in the university library.
- Swenton, J. R. Early History of the Creek Indians and Their Weighbors. Bulletin 78 of Bureau of American Ethnology, 1922. Has short section on the Shawnee tribe and scattered references to Shawnee groups among the Creeks and some possible Shawnee towns.
- Swenton, J. R. Indians of the Southeastern United States. Bullotin 137 of Burasu of American Ethnology. 1946. Best compilation of material of the various tribes of the southeastern part of the United States, and includes material on the Shawness, especially those Shawnes groups and towns in the Southeast.
