

(Oh, right here in town, right outside of town, huh?)

Mmmmm-hmmmm. Oh, Carl here, he remembers that when we was here.

(Yeah.)

He's younger, little younger than John.

(Yeah.)

And...

(Well, wasn't there some besides John and Carl. There was Tom and Joe; wasn't it?)

Well, I, I think Joe's a half brother, wasn't he?)

(I really don't know, but I, he may be, but I think Tom-- Tom, wasn't Tom a full brother?)

Now, Joe--Joe allotment was across the road from John, and where that big house is was something else. He's half brother to Carl and John.

(Well, he may be like Mrs. Cora and Jess Townsend--was half. They're half brothers to John.)

Over there?

(Uh-huh.)

Well, maybe that's who I'm thinking about then. They're over to Shawnee now.

(Yeah, that's Jess Townsend.)

Town--yeah.

(Yeah.)

Oh, he's the one I known back over there. Now, this Joe, I never did know him. If I ever knew him, I forgot him.

(Yeah.)

Was he--he must have been younger than Carl, wasn't he?

(No, he was older than Carl.)

I can't even remember Carl. Now, John, He's the only one I can remember. And, but Carl remembers us, I can't remember
