

(That is what I understand. It is now.)

And if I go out there, lot of times. It's an antique store out there, and I go out there. But, it's, yes, I know, I know so many people (interruption)

(Those would all be direct decendent of Sequoyah and his family and his children, them.)

Yes, uh-hum.

(There hangings were all in Sequoyah county, weren't they?)

I don't know but somehow I know Sequoyah home, and I don't know, I imagine some families lived around him. And as far as I know in history that they did, and, of course, they never know, where he was buried.

(But some of his descendent are still living in Sequoyah county.)

Yes, I know, in a paper two weeks, ago some lady wrote in and she said she sure wanted to find out when it was going to be, but I'll just call James and then I write to you.

(All right. I would appreciate it.)

And I sure will. Because I, I thought maybe I'd like to go out there.

(I would I sure would like to meet some of the folks. And then--course the Blairs they--there is quite a faction of those descendent and they are always interested in that relationship too. And they are all from the same area, out in there.)

INTEREST IN TREES AND PRESERVING HISTORY

James Offering has taken a lot of interests, he even--when I was out there I suggest that he said that so many different trees there in the park.

And I said why don't you put the names on it, and I said I'd love to know the names of the trees.

(I would too, in fact I think if anyone is interested at all would.)
