

(At the Grass Cemetery.)

Her name was Buckskin and she the first one to die. She had two husband. First husband was an Meigs.

(Meigs.)

I was wondering about that. I wonder if he was, related to them Meigs.

(Yeah, there was several Indians that were Meigs.)

Meigs, yes, and then her second husband married my mother and two of her brothers and then after he died and then Bob died. Little Bird Buckskin now I don't know where Little Bird is buried at. They run by some of those rocks, over there.

(Yeah.)

Over here on a hill, and all the time it was back when I was born.

(Yeah. Well, there is a lot of Indian folks lived along Salina Creek.

This New Jordon Creek or Wickliff Creek or did I--)

This right here?

(Yeah!)

New Jordon!

(New Jordon Creek.)

Far end of Jordon Creek, I don't know where in the world they got that name.. But since I can remember, they've had it. It's called New Jordon. That's the name they got for the church.

(Yeah. But now they call this the Grass Cemetery though. Who was the old man Grass?)

Jess Grass.

(Yeah. Old Man Jess. That must of been--)

(Interruption)

(Yeah.)
