

(not clear) that was his first wife. That was her allotment. Now this allotment for this man.

(Yeah.)

I can't remember his name.

REMINISCES ABOUT PEOPLE IN COMMUNITY

(That place has been there a long time, hasn't it?)

Long as I can remember. I remember that when we use to cross the creek to bring the harvest to my sister in a wagon. Come clear around here.

Was just all.

(Well!)

All woods, an old two back roads.

(Yeah!)

Go up the hill over there. Cross the side over there, people hardly use it much. They all went around the spring when they went to town.

(Yeah, that Radium spring was the popular place, I guess, in those days.)

Used to be a store over there. We traded a lot over there.

(Well, let's see, prominent early day Indian families, would have been the your family, and the Kingfishers, the Pickup, and the Barks. Were they the early family, too?)

Barks. Ah-hum!

(And let's see--)

I don't think the Kingfisher were the earlies. They come from Terrace Park.

(Well!)

They kin to the Kingfisher from Terrace Park. Oh! I imagine they were just as early as the rest of them. But, the Barks I know them and the Little Dave.
