

(Just what?)

Oh, it wasn't good.

(It wasn't?)

Yeah, it was you know just lumber.

(How many people were living in the house at that time.)

Oh, just me and my mother and the old man and my sister and my brother.

About four or five of us.

(Did you have a stove in it?)

Yeah, we had a government stove that they give to all the families.

(What kind of stove was it?)

Oh, just a little stove.

(What did you use for fuel?)

Oh, it was just a wood stove that they use to burn way back.

(Is that what you used to cook on?)

Yeah, if somebody chopped wood.

(Did your brother ever do any hunting?)

No, he doesn't ever hunt.

(Well, did you ever have any meat?)

Well, sometimes they butcher, sometimes they go out and then they.....We didn't have too many cows.

(Where did you get the meat?)

Well, when they butcher they get meat.

(You mean from the government?)

Yeah, sometimes the government give them.

(Rations?)

Yeah.

(How often did they give them?)

I don't know. I just couldn't tell because I was small. I just couldn't tell how often.
