

(Does she work out there?)

I guess she is working up there. She's been there for about nine years now.

(What about Sue--does she have any children?)

She's got two. And their names I don't know.

(Do you know if they're boys or girls?)

A boy and a girl. The oldest one is a girl.

(What is their father's name?)

He's a white man. I don't know his name. I don't never see him. She's married to a white man.

(Where do they live?)

They were in Germany.

(What about Ethelline?)

Ethelline, she's married to a white man and they live in Wichita, Kansas. And when I seen her she had one little girl. I don't know her name.

(What about Freddie?)

Freddie, he ain't got no children--he's in the service.

(O.K. Then what about Ruth Sitting Bull--did she have any?)

Oh, she's got a bunch, and their names I don't know.

(What about her husband?)

Her husband's name is Orange.

(Orange?)

Yeah.

(Is he Arapaho?)

Cheyenne.

(Do you know how many she's got?)

I don't know--last time I heard she had nine. She's got some girls, but I don't know their names. And she's got boys. They're all growing.
