

What did you do with it?

I guess I got it here.

Someday, we'll have to try and dig up everything.

But I had the history of Wooster when he first came here.

Yeah, right there.

Yeah, the (not clear).

They had two, another church and it burned down.

That's when they built this other church here.

Yeah. Then, they moved it. What year did they move it?

Moved it in 1815. (Not clear) I mean, 1915.

I know, Uncle Bob helped.

I come home in 1930 from the seminar.

Uncle Bob got married here and they moved and he said he would never go to church again.

And he didn't. And they come bringing his body in there when he died.

Yes.

And Jennie wanted to say he did go to church and I told her, I said, "Jennie, you don't know what went on and you don't know what you're talking about." (Sentence not clear)

(Where did you, have you just started yourself?)

Um-hum; organ mostly. We had an organ going there. My granddaughter left that piano with me.

Yeah, I know that.

She in the list, she (Interrupted).

You know, they, on the, when they had that up there, they told us about it and said people could go and visit their graves, you know.

What place is it?

Little Rock, Arkansas.

Yeah, they went to a different one and didn't find it.
