

(They wore a sheet around them?)

Yeah, they cover themselves around their waist line, and they shirt was loose. They wear white sheets, most of the older Indians. When they dress up, they wear blue and red sewed together and put a border on each side of the material. I don't know what they call it, but they thought it was real good for young men to wear these red and white blanket. You had a little yellow and red border around it and it was; the pride of the young men to wear the blanket.

(What about those silver disc you were talking about?)

The chiefs..not everybody could wear these silver disc..just the chief.

Everybody knew who was the chief by wearing the round disc silver looking disc. The chief was the only person could wear them.

(Did they have anything on them?)

I don't quite remember. I think they was just plain.

ON BECOMING A CHIEF:

(How did somebody get to be a chief?)

He was just chosen by some man, I don't know whether to say medicine man or not but they was chosen as chief by some man. Good family, well behaved, quite family. They all say "quiet family" when they mean somebody that's trying to live right..not causing no trouble anywhere. They select the young men out of there. I don't know too much further back but the braves always say that when they find an enemy and they come home with a scalp..with the leader of the warriors of some sort that they have caught the enemy and he was chosen as a brave and made chief.

(Did they have men's clubs?)

Yeah, they had lot of them. Chief..and I..

(When you were young did they have them?)

Yeah, they still have them. What you call these Gourd Clan. Had lots of
