

out of here. We're going to get you an artificial limb, we're going to get you a hearing aid, we gonna put some teeth in your mouth. He had to pay five hundred for his limb, himself. He still ain't got no teeth, and he still can't hear. They promised him all that the government would do, they didn't do nothing.

CROPS AND RENTS FROM LAND

Last year, they didn't get as good as they did the year before. Year before, he got twenty two hundred for his part. Last year, he just got thirteen.

(Where was that?)

He got land up here, they got crop rent. But he and his sister divide on that.

(Do they get their crop rent in addition to the lease money?)

Yea, they don't get no rent, it's just crop rent. When he gets his peanuts out, ...he got thirteen hundred last year. Year before that, he got ~~twenty~~ two hundred.

(Is that the place up near Hydro?)

No, he's got another little place up here, his mother's place. He's an heir to that, he's just an heir. And that place up near Hydro, he's an heir to it, too. That was his daddy's place. He don't have no individual land, like I have. This is my land. It's got my name on it. Then I inherit my mother's land. It's still in her name, but I could sign, you know. I'm the only heir to that place. It isn't much good, but still....

(What's his share on the crop rent on that other place?)

It depends on how the crops come out. If they make pretty good, like, if they get a little wheat money, and a little feed money, and a little cotton money. And this peanut allotment, they got forty acres. You know, peanuts get a pretty good price around here. And I don't know what it's going to be, you know, we don't know. It's just according to....but if they make... but if they don't, you don't get anything. It's just taking a chance. You can't say how much you going to get.
