

"We're gonna move." So Sainday said, "No. You all don't move. I'm going to turn myself into a dog. I'm going to find out. I'm going to find out what's what," he said. So that girl--that little girl--told her mother and daddy, "I'm going to the--" somewhere, I guess. She said "I'm going out to look for--" I don't know--you could call it "trash pile." She just go out and wander around to see if she might find something, you know, and wander off to the creek. And her daddy said, "No, don't go. It's bad. You don't know what's in them creeks." She said, "No, I'm gonna go." So she went. And sure enough when she went, she ran into this little dog, you know. And she said, "Oh, puppy come here, che, che, che, che!" So, boy, she picked that dog up you know, it was cute! And she ran all the way back. She was carrying that dog. She went back to that tent you know. And she told her daddy and mamma, "Hey, Daddy and Mamma, I find a little dog. Gee, it's cute. You all look at it." And her daddy wasn't --? He said, "No, bring it. Let me see it. I don't believe that it's a real dog." So she gave it to her daddy and her daddy said, "Hey, it's not no real dog. It's something bad. It's not no dog. It's a human. You can't have it." And that girl cried, you know. So her mother and her father went out the next day. They went out to see the rest of them campers. And when they went out, this little girl said, "Hey, come on puppy. I'm gonna feed you." So she started getting meat out for him you know. See, they were prepared with meat. So she started feeding this dog, and that's when he turned himself back into a human. He said, "I'm curious. I'm gonna see what's down this hole--this cave." So he pushed that buffalo chip over. He pushed it away. He slide down that hole, Sainday did. And, boy, when he got to the end of that hole, he said there was nothing but buffaloes, you know, at the bottom. So he came pack up, and he told that girl, he said,
