

Uh - red root.

(They just ate it?)

No, they drank it.

(Made a tea out of it?)

Uh-huh.

(Did they ever have Peyote up here?)

I don't know what it is.

(Do they have a Native American Church around here?)

What you mean like in church?

(Well, it's like a Baptist church or a Methodist church but it's classified as the Native American Church. And out of it's, the legal forms they have Peyote and Pega ((?)). It's like a medicine too, but it's authorized through out the churches.)

No, huh-uh.

(It's quite prevalent among the southern tribes.)

It is?

(Oh yeah.)

It's different from the Creeks.

(They go down to Texas to get the Peyote. That's where it grows. It's not legal for white men to have it but they can have it. Do they get that root around here?)

Uh-huh, if they can find it.

(Well what do the women do, drink?)

Nothing. They just cook.

(Do they have just one drum and the men all, - what kind of music do they have at these stomp dances?)

They don't have - they just have the singing.