

I think it's gonna be the 4th of July.

(You know who they sent for?)

Who?

(Bill.)

Uh-huh. He just had that day off before he had to go back to school Monday. They will come back that night like they did Memorial Day.

(Do many of your kids have a college education? Did they go to college?)

Uh-huh.

(How many?)

Six. Bill, her dad is the only one who finished college and Bill went (not clear) years. He got his scholarship from the school and he went two years at Tishomingo and then he was drafted in the service. He went in for - over 21 years of service and he is going back to school now at Okmulgee Tech. And Jim went to Okmulgee Tech too, when he got out of the service and he's got a good job out in Houston. All my boys was high school - all of them got good jobs. All the boys have been in the service except Rufus, and he is the people. He is about 28 or 29.

THIRD VOICE: He's 8 years older than I am.

And my oldest son, he will be 47 this coming August. He was home during Alex's funeral. I didn't know he was back in Oklahoma but he said he had been back two weeks down there.

(Can you think of anything else you would like to talk about?)

There's nothing else except crocheting lessons. Making crochet and I can talk about it. I taught a crocheting lesson last evening. I sold two last week. But it's like Lodel awhile ago. She buys thread and I make her one and I make me one. "Cause she can get them cheaper in Ft. Smith than I can here.
