

robe, anything that you want to give. Buffalo robes especially they have those days.

(Were there anything the mother and father were supposed to avoid either before or after the birth?)

(Like certain kinds of food?)

No, nothing.

(His mother was not a medicine woman he said. Anyone that held this medicine had. It was very powerful and they were not supposed to eat. The price was great. They were not supposed to eat. But his mother was never that type or kind.)

(Ok. Does he know how old he was when he first started walking?)

No, I don't know if mother had any sense to know or not. He said when you are born they usually cradle you. They lay material out just like they do when they wrap a doll. And the mother stays in her place after birth. And she lays the material out (not clear) That's what she told me he said.

(Was he ever sick when he was a little boy?)

He said, oh I was sick but there was a medicine man that doctored me. His name was KUOL (?) and he gave him this medicine that he still has and anybody gets sick and he said I have used this medicine and when a person get sick I can doctor them and they will get well.

(What kind of sickness or illness did he have?)

It is something like a diarrhea, evidently, with a cramping in the stomach.

(How did he cure it?)

Well, he said I was a baby at that time and I never did know how he had doctored me. But he said later on in years he had told me how and what to do. That is why I have saved the lives of several Comanches. Which
