

I can't remember how many days this was - I was - ah - just a girl, and didn't pay too much attention to these things - or what was going on - and ah - time went on ah, they ah - had ah - different procedures the day or two before the wedding I remember they brought horses with their food. And my people - course my parents had invited previously before - previous to the wedding. They invited the relatives and certain relatives to, they invited on both sides to help them through this wedding. They all participated. And ah - the - ah - bridesmaids - bridesmaid consisted of - of father - of my aunt. The brides aunt, in otherwords, on her fathers' side was always the bridesmaid of honor. And then the sisters - and - if she had any sisters like myself, well I was a bridesmaid. Then we had ah - cousins whom we call sister and they were bridesmaids. And I can't remember how many there was of us right at this time. But ah - that's the way the relatives were selected and called. The ones that were to participate as bridesmaids and so forth. So on this particular day, when they brought the horses with the food, well these relatives were gathered here and ah - they passed this - ah - these gifts out, which consisted of horses, blankets and dishes, and then they brought this food, which they had been bringing every day, three times a day, they cooked it and bring it and then the brides people ate this food. And then then the bridesmaid to be, always returned the kettles, and they washed them up and then - I remember taking them back ~~to~~ these - to the camp of the groom, the grooms parents. And then on this particular day - well - each relative got gifts - like my brothers - come in on that too. They were - I don't know just what they got, but they each got something from this wedding. And then the wedding day - well - they ah - the brides dressed in their costumes, which consisted of the - the - costume of our people today.
