

his papers fixed over. Because that really hurt me. So we went back to the City after that. We all went back to Oklahoma City and worked over there.

(Now how many children did you have?)

Four, I had three but one was in the army--my oldest one.

(And was your mother living with you then?)

Yeah, mama--I always have my mother with me.

(What about your dad?)

No, my daddy died a long time ago.

(Oh, you said your mother lived to be 100 years old?)

Uh huh. Yeah, my daddy died long time ago. So I had mother with me all the time.

(Did you stay in the City long then?)

How many years did we stay in the City? About eight or-- About eight. We had hard time making our baby to come back. He didn't want to come back.

(Why?)

He just didn't want to. He said, "I don't know anybody out there". But we got back--got him home and so we never could get him to go back again. We lived here when we came from over there. So he went to school at McCloud. He never want to part away from there anymore.

COMMUTING TO WORK IN OKLAHOMA CITY FROM McCLOUD

(Why did you come back from the City?)

I really don't know why. What did we come back for? From Oklahoma City? I guess we just got tired of workin'. We came home. My oldest boy got married when he came out too.

(Well, when you got back did you do some kind of work over here?)

Well, I went back and forth to work on a bus. I walked to McCloud and catch my bus and come back, and walk back home.

(Where were you working?)
