

Until this foot. And I got some out here now. But boy, you get this, the more set and get to studin' about different things, the more I can, I can think of a lot of fellers that know a lot more than me. That ole Charlie Colford. He's one of the nicest people. He's out at the Indian land and bought Indian land, and everything in the world. It's a great country. And I don't know, I like Texas when I was a kid. Texas is good country too. But we came on out here. And we been here ever since. Now, I can wouldn't have to do this, I got adaughter that lives over here at Purcell, they got a nice place and everything. That's the only heir and I got a granddaughter in Chackasha, she's operator down there in the phone office. Bean there 22 or 23 years. They both want me to live with them. But I been right here and I know every kid an old man and I just wouldn't be satisfied. I just rather stay here with my friends. But anyway, I can full around with you and help you, all sure do it. I can tell you some pretty doggone, some Indians could tell you some rough tells.

(Well, these cattle that you trade in, is most of them herfords?)

Oh, holsten, out here. Their mostly white faced and black, any kind. I use to buy them in shippin' , I'd ship cattle clear along to Nebraska. Kansas City. And I had some out here in 1918 and I had about 300 head of cattle out here in that I another old boy and we had to get out and (unin.) grass and up here in Talogie County, no, Dewey County, not Talogie, Talogie was the county seat. And I wasn't the only one. Bunch of us old boys move the stock up there and you could find a batch and you look all around. And we stay there until the fall and it got to rainin' and so I shipped out. There wasn't much work then and I shipped them on the train and manage d them that way. But when we started back it was rainin' and we drove a bunch of cows in Talogie in here in 5 days. We had a kind of a campin' outfit, and just drove them in horse back. Had wwfulest wheat pasture that year. So we just, we got a rain some we, stock some old boards, he either let us in the house or burn, so we wouldn't
