

They get in there and they sing, they got a drum. And there's just two men beside those four cause those drummers there, they change. At a certain time there's two of them that goes out and another two of them comes in and sings in there for those four that's in there. They don't drink water and they don't eat anything in there. At certain times they take that peacepipe and they smoke and they pray. They pray while they fasting in there, for that reason. So, then some of them mens in there say, "We want to go over here and we want to conquer a different tribe; that we want to go to the war and kill them over there and conquer them and get what they got and take it away from them." Some of them pray for that and some of them pray for whatever they go in there for - to the great spirit. And they don't know where it is but they said that some great spirit is somewhere. That's been way back in the centuries. All right, whenever they stay in there for four days that drum goes on and they sing. Those men - and every once in a while those mens get up and they dance. And they got a whistle made out of buffalo bone, a small bone that's in buffalo. You get that certain place. They make a whistle out of them - all four of them. One of them would get up and while they'd be singing, he'd be dancing and blowing this. And they're people there, all around there, just hundreds of people all around there, stays there with them everyday. And those mens stay in there night and day for four nights - no water, nothing to eat. So after four days is completed; the first thing that they bring in there is water. They bring water to them in there, and they take very little water. You see, they take it and they bless it in there. And then they take that water around there and they give them the water to sip - take just a little bit you know - kind of wet their throat - just a very little. Then they lay down and rest. Lay around for a little while and after that they bring that water again and they give it to them - till they