

Oh it's all--I got these at west of Geary. There's a little creek that runs up there off the river and--north side of the river that's where my cousin lives. I went to see her and she had a spring down there and I got this on the side of it. Did I untie this?

(I don't think so.)

Yeah, this is what--you know, that one I'm talking about. From New Mexico. This is--look the way they look. And these are the arms--they come in big chunks like this. They grow on them little bushes. This is some somebody gave me, that's all I got of it. Somebody gave me this. It was too long ago. Used to get a bunch of it. That's really good for pneumonia.

(How do you prepare it?)

Just boil it, make tea out of it and let them drink it. And rub them all over with this. With tea what you make, and rub on their body. Did you see this?)

(I think so. )

That's the paint isn't it? Oh, this is some of that stuff that we got up there in the mountains, look.

(Teupée not sue. Rock dMedicine.) That's the way they should be that size, (Half size of golf ball) Setting on the rock. Smells like cedar, isn't it? That's mixed with cedar.

(When you put that with the cedar when your making the smoke, how much do you have to use?)

Oh, just a very little of it. Oh, like that. (half size of marble) About that much. That's all. One woman was asking me for that medicine. I got to give it to her. At Lawton, she lives in Lawton. She got crooked face. She said, "I want you to fix me up." I saw her at the dance the other day. She said, "I heard you're sure good on this crooked face." And I said, "Don't say nothing about it. We'll take over after the dance is over." She said alright. I was
