

(Cause I--)

(Pop:--Nancy Wood was my girl friend. I remember. We'd look at each other and we'd laugh. I got shipping there. Used to ship me. You know--well, they put me and another boy in that girl's dormitory you know, where they cook and help them build fires early in the morning to help them cook breakfast and supper. And I thought of that a million times after I got old. They'd lock the doors on us at night and if that old building would of got on fire we'd of burnt up with it. But how come it's funny, I got up to build a fire early in the morning--build a fire in the cook stove--some of the girls, they have to get up and cook. We got to playing tag you know. Well, we was playing tag anyhow, she hit me and I hit her and we ran for the door, and she slammed the door on me like that and it caught that finger. See, that it's crooked. That door, I got hung in that door. And I grabbed for the door like that and made that by George, you know what! When they opened that door old (irrelevant word) was right in my face. I liked to run over him. He took me out and whipped me for running and playing in the building. I got a--I don't know what--

One of them was Judith, Judith Lewis.

(Yeah, you remember Judith Lewis? You've mentioned her name earlier.

Let's see, you said Louisa Wood is Willie Wood's sister and she's at Talihina.)

At Coalgate.

(At Coalgate, in a nursing home?)

We missed her didn't we?

(Well, we haven't been to Coalgate, but Willie told me he had a sister.

He's got a daughter at Talihina that works at the hospital.)
