

Mrs.: How does he spell it? Houzer H o u z e r.

Mr. They use to spell it Hauzous, or something like that, but they have changed--

(I didn't know there was a "z" in it.)

They use to.

Mrs." and George, who was this man up north of town.

Mrs." And now she spells her name.

Mrs." John Loco always talked about --

Mr.: H o u z o u s.

Mrs. Houzous. That's the way she's got it spelled in here, Blossom, Blossom is her name. But Allen was here not to long ago and I talked to him and he spells his name, a l a n instead of that double l e n. And he spelled the last different, but I think H o w s e r. But what did John Loco tell you about deer in the face?

Mr." Well, some old Indian claimed that Geronimo was so cunning in the woods that he had influence that he had an Influence over animals and that the deer would come eat out of his hand. Now, that may be legend, but I've had some old Indians tell me that.

Mrs.: John Loco told us that, right herein this store and I heard it. And another thing, the old Indians claimed that they had a remedy for almost every ailment that the human bodies accumulated. They gathered roots and herbs, barks and they had their own way of curing. One told me that when one had the toothache, the Indian laid down with his head on the ground and some other Indian stepped on the side of his head. Now, I'm jest tellin' you what they said.

(What about that cell at Ft. Sill, that they say he paced around in?)
