

here on, these bad things is gonna be set aside. No more among our people. We are going to do away with that."

(Which were the fellows that decided they wanted to do away with that?)

Well, that's one we don't know--who brought this idea out. The way it's been told, well, they didn't point out anybody. But the idea was--it was all these guys. They said, "All right. From here on this way, in the future, there will be no more of this kind of doings. This kind of work." So ever since then--that's way before my time. There were a few fellows that was living the time I start going to meetings. They told it. For instance, Old Man Taho, he tells us a little, you know. He said he seen it (the power contests). And Blackbear. Blackbear, he was one of the best that I know that brings out histories. He's pretty good. Brings out stories, you know, just like I tell these young ones. I wish you all could have heard or listened to Blackbear. It's just like television, the way he brings out the story. Brings out all the small details--just like you see it in your vision, you know. You see it in your thoughts. That's the way the Old Man was, you know. Course, me and Ray, we got together here a while back. We was talking about his grandpa. Once in a while we'd be sitting around where he (Old Man Blackbear) tells us (stories). We were small, you know. Houston--me and Houston Klinekoke, we heard him. We was little fellows. We were sitting around. He (Old Man Blackbear) always know that we want, you know, for him to tell stories. "Say, you all like to hear--?" "Yeah!" So he tells us this and that. He's got a lot of old stories.

(Are these stories all about the Native American Church?)

No. He brings out different--his experience, and what he hears way back there from his grandpas. How--how we live--the Apaches.

KIOWA-APACHE VISITS TO SEE ARAPAHO SUN DANCE NEAR GREENFIELD

(Interruption. Interview resumes on subject of Kiowa-Apache visits to Arapaho Sun Dance in the 1920's.)

You know, Apaches--not invitation--but they like to take part in this northern doings, you know--Cheyenne-Arapahoes. They have
