

this yard and take a little hoe and dig , and dig up that rose rock. See., That's what those guys (Unintelligible)

(Judy:: Do you let people dig for them ?)

Well, I did. Bill told me to charge 'em a dollar and let 'em go out there and dig all they want to. But now I don't tell anybody that because they too apt to get snake bit, and you responsible for people on your property. And Bill couldn't afford to be responsible for anybody. He's too bad shape. See. I don't want to be that either. So, like I told you that man, said, "Now you might get snake bit." He is a grown up man. He hasn't got any better sense than to go out there through all those weeds, why let him go. ((Laughter)) But you know what I was goin' to say - Oklahoma has give away more - now I don't blame anybody for leaving a place if he can better his self, 'cause I think he is silly if he don't. You know, if you can better your self, especially as far as your health is concerned and your family, I think you'd better get up and leave, even if you leave this state. I don't care how much you like, you can't live on likes and dislikes. So I think you're better off if you go where you can live. But for people who own their property here and they like it here - - like Bill has owned this piece of land here nearly all his life. He's niver donw one thing with it, not one. There's some beutiful building sites on this place with good views, real good lake sites and things, and who knows what this land has underneath it? There has never been oil well drilled on it. There never has been a mine on it. Now my dad mined copper out of the well out of Mount King. I believe that's what they call it. Now (Unintelligible words) Now he used pick and shovel. He had a real hard time of it. 'cause he had to work his smelters and things like that. I think it was off down here where they have these zinc and lead mines, but they only melt up this lead, see. And Zinc mines. I don't
