

Mrs. Lizzie Bearpaw, Cherokee
Stillwell, Oklahoma

Interviewed by: Mr. Boyce Timmons
August 17, 1967

Transcribed by: Nona M. Kerr

( I want to get some of this part again and to say on this other part of the tape that I am with Mrs. Lizzie Bearpaw here south of Stillwell, Oklahoma. We've been visiting sometime here about her early life and I want to get some of the other stuff, kinda review a little bit, here, if she doesn't mind and it won't take too long. And get the other part of this tape. That way I think we won't miss anything and we'll cover both sides of this thing if it's all right with you.)

Unhunh.

( And I want to ask you again on this part about your early days here and we started off a while ago. I want you to tell story about the chimney and ~~our~~ chickens when you were a little girl here. And lets see, your name was originally was Swimmer, and then it was Sanders and then Bearpaw?)

Unhunh.

( Do you think you'll get your chimney fixed?)

I want to.

( You don't use it now do you, much for fireplace?)

Hunhunh. It's stopped up inside.

( This chicken raising that you tried when you were a little girl, I'd like to get that again; besure I get it all 'cause I think that would be interesting. It's something you were doing here in the early days and I want to get again about the preachers. So if you will start in again about this thing and I'll have both sides of this, and I'll be sure and get it all.