

the spirit back, see, to there. And he wants the spirit to come and tell them if they seen this man's daughter anywhere. If they seen her anywhere, any place. So they went ahead and they put up a big tent, during the tenth day. You see, during the tenth day they put up a big tent. And instead of having the opening for a door, you see, they put up a big tipi, you know tipi. They didn't have no tents in them days all the hides and everything was made with tipi you know, made out of that--You know these buffalo hides that been tanned. So then they faced the door, west where they could go in. Instead of facing the door east, they faced it back. Than on the inside they put another little tipi in there, inside. Little one. Smaller one. So when they got ready, it got dark. So they told them people in that camp they said for them to come on. They was ready to go ahead and call for the party that he wanted to come, to tell where they seen her. Seen this young lady--wherever they seen her. So they all start coming in. You know, they start telling him, he said, "Remember," he said, "We want all of you people that come here to lay down, and face--everybody face toward the west." And he said, "Put your head down," he said, "I don't want any one of you to look up or to talk with one another. Be still and listen." So they went ahead and they all come and they got ready. So they all layed down just the way the man wanted them to do. So the man got ready and he went inside of that tipi in that smaller one. And he had a little fire built in there. Small fire built in there. So he took his peace pipe--peace pipe they called it--and he got that ready. So he started talking. He called for a certain man that has been dead many years ago, before that. He been dead. So he called for him. He called for him, he said, that wind was so strong that it shake that tipi and you could hear those poles rattle. So he started--he said he landed up there on top of the poles. He said, "I'm here. I'm here." So he came on down, down into
