

- - what you call him? They got sharp in the end just like - - And they heard that horse coming round that way (switches to Kiowa) - - they pull that boy's horse back, come way back - - pull that boy, pull him down. Start to bite him, start to kill him. And that little pony run to wagon. And his saddie, he knows - he screamed up there. And that man run up there. He see that - - tail - - his tail come out like that. And he heard the scream the boy - - By golly (Unintelligible phrase) they kill him. They take that knife off. They cut that bear. Cut that panther. He kill panther. And this boy, they doctor, Indian. Got all right. That's a story, I got that Dohauson - he not dead. He still liveing not long ago down to Verden. They old and they die. They take a (Unintelligible word) down to Verden - - right this side of Verden -- close to Lucy's house.

(Some irrevelant conversation)

(Able tells story in Kiowa in which mentions name of Choctaw Bill, Charlie Palmer, Hog Creek)

(What did he say?)

(Charlie: He said he was well acquainted with him. When he was young, there was another man name of Brace. Brace went to school. He returned home and he met him and brought him in as he was a little fellow - - a young kid. And he brought him home over there, and he kept him for several weeks and months, or whatever. And then from there he got big enough he rode horseback. He went to Rainy Mountain. From there he worked around and the got married. He got married. And oh, he'd been married several times. He married my mother first. I'm the oldest. Adn then he married several women, different women. And that's far as - -) (Preceding referring to Choctaw Bill, Charlie's real father)

(Is he still living?)
