

legs get worms in them.

Chas: Yeah, everywhere.

Jack: That's what they do. It's true.

Chas: But that's all gone. Just a very few of them.

(Where there any old medicine men that had power to twist your face like that Ghost sickness?)

Daisey: No, they took it away but they didn't make them do that.

Chas: Fix you up. See, the spook get you. See, something like that.

(I knew they could doctor it away but I didn't know if there's any men that could make it happen to you.)

Chas: Oh, they could make you what they call--speaks in Kiowa--way back then. Yeah, they do things like that. They could make you cripple. They could make you paralyze or make you loose your mind, or something, you know.

Jack: Yeah, they do that.

Chas: Back there, olden--way back ahere. Yeah, they're crazy.

(Mary says that she can doctor that twisted face?)

Chas: Yeah, -- speaks Kiowa to Daisey and mentions Mary Poafpybitty, a LComanche doctor --

Daisey: Yeah, she is.

Jack: There are, but after awhile, they don't use it right. They go beyond Daisey: Them Wichitas and Caddos, they said they had one.

Jack: All that medicine--what you supposed to give them--instead of giving those things--they want money now. ((during this time Charles and Daisey are carrying on a conversation about medicine men)). --and maybe that's why it don't work when they doctor, it don't work. Some of them, you have to get them eagle feathers--maybe four eagle feathers, maybe
