

have no wife. They say he's kind of a man that like to witch you, you know. And somebody told the, "You all shouldn't have that man over there. He'll witch you or try to hurt some of you all. Witch you. Might kill you." And she say she always be afraid of that man. I forgot that man's name. She told me that man's name. I heard about that man, too. Everybody afraid of him because he witch people. Sometime he take their daughter and witch them someway, so he could--so somebody could come to him and get him to doctor a person. They get horse or some things like that. That's why he witch them--make them sick. And they give him doctor bill--that's why he like to witch people. Oh, it's awful.

(Is he Kiowa-Apache?)

I think he's Apache. I wish--I knew that name, but I forgot. They was telling me that.

(Did he live with Molly?)

She said he came down there and stayed with them. I don't know whether he's kin to them or not, but he just go here and there. That's what they was telling me--everybody is kinda scared of him. Wherever he go, why they always try to treat him right. But when he's in the notion to get some things when you know that somebody's got something good like horses, cows, or what--kinda live well-off, like. That's why he like to witch people--so he could make them get sick and he doctored them and get some of thier--you know, doctor bill. They might give him money or give him something good.

(Did you ever hear the name of anybody that he witched?)

No, I don't know. But that's what Molly was telling me. I went to see her the other day and I stayed with her and me and her was talking till way past daylight. Seems to me like she don't know much. She was telling me what she know--how they used to live up there at Cyril somewhere.

USE OF APACHE LANGUAGE IN RECENT TIMES:

(Do you talk Apache when you talk to each other?)

I do. I try to talk Apache, but sometimes she talk English. "Hay," I say, "I come to talk to you in Apache language. Don't talk English! You're not no white
