

in Old Mexico, and just our won tribe, Warm Spring Apache scout, they went after us they took us back to San Carlos, Arizona and we lived there, I don't know how long, and they took us from there to Ft. Apache. There was little farm so we farmers so they took us over there. And then when Geronimo, when we come back to Indian scouts took us to San Carlos and took us again, come in again with us, to San Carlos. Then they move up there to Ft. Apache. They keep us there. We came up there in 18 - anyway they move us over there. Then that was about 1885, he went on the war path again, right there. Then after that, why 2 or 3 days these Warm Spring Reservation Indians, Apaches, they maybe the scout about 100. No - 50 of them. Then these other Indians, Ft. Apache Indians put them together and make 200. And they came 1885, they went after him. They out there another a year, Then I think General Cook was killed by mistake when the Geronimo's camping right here, on this side, Indians camp seen the camp on this side. The Mexicans see Geronimo's camp right here. So these sides, both sides. And Geronimo's men got on hill where they go all the time. They know, they seen that. Then they come back and told Geronimo about it. "That's alright leave them alone. We fix them." So when it first gets dark, they don't move at all, only day light, they don't do nothing, then when it all dark, but soon as it gets dark they get everything ready to move out of the way. Then there's a few sheets, they cover up with them - just like a camp. Then they went off on a hill they go up there and they look down in there. Where they camped. When these both sides, come in attack at same time, that camp, then they fight one another, Indian scouts and Mexican army. But Geronimo's up there and looks down and look at them. So they fighting down there, they fight on - and after while - why, they - this General cook, he find out that the Mexicans, they're fighting with the Mexican's, so he took his handkerchief, get on a rock, he trying to stop these Mexicans. They shot him right here and he fall down, his brain all come out. So after
