

they're not as good as somebody else.

CLINTON YOUNGBEAR - CHILDHOOD

(Clinton, I want you to visit a little bit with me now. Just identify yourself, like Howard did and etc...)

((New informant here))

Clinton: My name is Clinton Youngbear. I was born July 12, 1932 in Concho. My name is Clinton Youngbear Sutton, but my father is Ray Sutton, my mother is Josephine Youngbear.

(Your name is Youngbear Sutton, but you don't use Sutton.)

I don't use Sutton, just on birth certificate and stuff. But my mother and father didn't stay together too long after I was born. So my mother must have had something to do with that and she didn't want me to use his name. She married after that and I got three half-brothers and three half-sisters. And my father, my step-father, he was a man, kinda a man with a bottle. And my mother was always the one that got the raw end of the deal all the time. And my great-grandmother raised me until I was about six years old. And I went to school when I was five. About the time, when I was six years old, I was in third grade. I guess I was pretty good in school work. But when my grandmother died, we went to Concho one time and stayed over night with some people who were camping there, and she took me to the corner edge of the campus out there.

ENTERS CONCHO SCHOOL

(At Concho?)

At Concho, and she told me, "Well, you gonna go to school. You're a man now, you going to go to school and after school's out, you come over here and I'll be waiting for you." And I went to school. That day never did come when she was there. I went to that corner edge all the time and she never did come. So I guess that was one way of getting me to go to