

(Fish in Blue River?)

Blue River, white grass. Red River — Creek. We went down there. Catch good fish.

(Cat fish?)

STORIES

(Did you ever hear anything about we're talking about back in Mississippi. Did you ever hear a story about giants. Big men in Tennessee or Kentucky. That part of the country. May just have been told you know, from one Chocataw to another? Something about--)

Giants?

(Yeah.)

Bob is laughing.

(See, I don't know whether it was something that just told for fun, you know--)

Might be. That one, I believe that way just told for fun. I believe that way just told for fun. Yeah--lots of people they talk for fun. I never seen a giant but this is truth, you know, Indian departments workin' at Walters, Okla. Down there and I was workin at Walters, Okla. Down there in 1914. Comanche woman, ohhh just biggest woman you saw, weighed on a scale out there. 750 pounds.

(One woman weigh that much?)

Bob: One woman weigh that much in Walters, Okla. Indian Department from Muskogee come in there every two weeks. You call, you call him field clerk and--kinds. I don't know he give some money--or, like we had out here. Indian department come up here.

The ever each month in Hugo, you know. Just like that. And that woman, Comanche woman, and they weigh her and put her on the scale, out there. And 750 pounds. Whuuuwhew.

(Gnin.) Some woman wudn't it? That's a giant, that's why I thought of it.

(Was she tall?)

Oh pretty good tall. I seen that.

(How big was she?)

About that big around..

GRAVEYARDS:

(You remember any graveyards in when you first came here or hearing about them in
