

My father buried in Bentley. Mother buried up there at my church, Homer Chapel. Church up here close to Ollie.

(Homer Chapel?)

Uh-huh. Homer Chapel.

(Homer Chapel.)

My mother she buried there. After my daddy died, she come here and stay with me till she died.

(Well, I don't want to tire you, I'm glad to get to visit with you. And I'll be back to see Nancy again. I'll be back in Atoka in a couple of weeks. You want me to tell her anything for you?)

No. Only that I am all right.

(I sure will. I'll tell 'em you are all right.)

I haven't seen 'em in a long time.

(Your help is named Ida?)

Uh-huh.

(Maybe Ida could write sometime.)

Yeah, maybe she could.

(She could write to Nancy for you and Elizabeth could write for Nancy. That way you could keep in touch with each other. They went with Pop and me in the car to see Emma. Do you know Emma?)

Yeah. I seen her last Sunday. She was up here visiting me. She come up here to church.

(Is that where they had the singing?)

Yeah. That's where they ad the big singing.

(Do they do that once a year?)

That's the first time. First time they have it.

(I heard about the homecoming last week. Did you know to go to town during the homecoming?)

No. I didn't go.

(But on Sunday, you went to the)

Yes. I went to church.
