

anybody that. So, I told the kids. I said, "Alright, they think we can't do anything in religion." I said, "What I want this year is to win the trophy in this tri-county." Alright, so we work on it, and we won the tri-county trophy, for memorizing the most Bible verses, and having the most kids qualified to go to the camp. So - ah - a lot of people say, it's me. But I say this, I've had the kids. And on my girl's basketball, I - I've had my primary teachers tell me, "Dave, the way you can treat those kids - you bawl them out, you do this, that, and the other - I don't see why they are like that - they'll stick their leg out in the fire for you, when you're gone I can't say nothing about you - they sulk up." Ah, I'm operating here on nothing practically. We only have 7 quarter square miles, valuation of 52,000, which only-brings in 4 or 5 hundred dollars. So I have to manage, run a bus, pay the cook, pay the bus driver, out of what I get. And I sometimes wonder, how many lives I have to fill to do those things, or what I have to do. If I could manage my affairs, as well as, I manage the school affairs, I'd been a jillionnaire. The other year I got a good write-up. Gladys may know where it is(irrevelant)

INDIAN SENIOR CITIZENS IN THE COMMUNITY - CUSTOMS AND RITUALS

(The Indian senior citizen of each community - how are they making out?). Those that haven't had a chance to get an education as their children have ..)

Oh well, they doing fairly well on relief. Because their wants are few, they're happy with what they have.

(They still follow a great lot of their old customs, beliefs..)

Yeah, belief in witches, different medicines and herbs altogether. Uh, I go along with them on the herbs, but then, they got a ritual they go through,
