

And Mike--when they took out the feathers to fumigate those fans they have-ornaments--they look at that thing and Mike had eagle feathers. It was pretty--just looked like they were finished that day! And Mr. Micelson said, "Mike," he said, "Those are pretty feathers you've got." Mike said, "Oh, they're old" He looked at them. He said, "Old? They look like they've just been finished this last week!" "No, them feathers are over thirty-five years old. I hardly ever carry them, but when I bring them in here, I use them. He (Dr. Micelson) look at them and said, "It was such pretty work. Pure. You know, eagle feathers. Buckskin fringing, and all that cut bead work--just as beautiful! I could see it because it (the peyote) intensified my sight, you know." Then he said, "How do you feel?" He asked Mike how he felt. He said, "I fell all right," he said. "Does your head feel limber?" Mike said, "My head's just natural." "Well," Mr. Michelson said, "Why, my head becomes stiff every now and then." Well, Mike Goggles said, "How come? I use peyote all the time and my head never feels that way." This Mike Goggles said, "Maybe it's because you're a white man. You're not used to exercising--moving around like I do." Well, then he says, "When I've changed my position, I know my knees felt funny. And when I fix my blanket"--this Dr. Micelson had his blanket on--they gave him a blanket to cover up with--I know my joints feels peculiar in my joints--in my shoulders." Then Mike Goggles said, "Well, this peyote must have an effect on your joints." Dr. Michelson said, "Well, I believe it does. I believe it does have an effect on my joints, and my knees, my neck, elbows, and shoulders," This Indian said, "I don't have that feeling at all. And I've been using it for going on forty-one years. "And he said, "Besides, I'm in good health." So Dr. Michelson said he asked Mike how old he was. He said, I think, he was about fifty-two years old. And Dr. Michelson said he was only
