

looked at Grandpa and see one side of his row just was gone... (laughter) He lost one side. Every time we'd get on a row, why, he'd climb over, keep his balance. He was just covering on one side. (laughter) Boy, I used to dread driving them things. The team, you know, double tree over there. You turn too quick, why, you turn this thing over, you got to make a big circle. Long as you make a big circle, it won't turn on you, but if you quick turn, that thing turns, quick, too, you know. They was sharp, too, and you better watch..

(Well, how do you say Birdchief's name in Cheyenne?)

How would you pronounce it... Well, bird is, you know how bird is? Cheyenne word. Well, the pronunciation for bird in Cheyenne is (Cheyenne word), repeats, That's bird. And (Cheyenne word) is chief. (Cheyenne word) Birdchief, (repeats...) That's all I can tell you.

(So that when they referred to him, they referred to him as Chief Birdchief.)

Yeah.
