

wanted to have it. She said they quit whenever they sing all their songs, after each one takes part.

(Ask her how her husband's family got the name, Osage?)

(Cheyenne) She said, "I don't know where my father-in-law got the name. (Cheyenne) That's his allotment name, Osage.

Kate: He was allotted--name Osage. But his real name was Little Bird. (Speaks Cheyenne)

(Interruption, conversation resumes with Kate talking about her garden.)

Kate: Cabbage and okra and beets, beans and peas, spinach, and mustard and lettuce and carrots. They all over there.

(Did you plant this yourself?)

Kate: I always win in the garden contest every year. Last year we never got our money. They never pay us.

(How much are you supposed to get?)

Kate: Ten dollars for first prize. Six dollars, second prize. Four dollars, third prize.

(Do you work in the garden by yourself?)

I got two men that helps me.

(What is this here?)

Kate: Potatoes. They be ready the first of next month. And over there is sweet potatoes and tomatoes and peanuts and watermelons, cucumbers.

(Asparagus. Is that sweet corn?)

Kate: Sweet corn over here.

(What kind of corn is that?)

Kate: It's just white corn--Indian corn.

(How will you use your Indian corn?)
