(You know in Norman one of the civic clubs has a program where they go around to the different schools and they test the kids' eyesight, and they also give dental checks, and if they find kids need glasses and they can't afford them, or if they have to have work on their teeth and their folks can't afford it, they take them and get that done--)

Well, we have Indian clinic at El Reno, Watonga, Kingfisher, Clinton, I think and one at Weatherford. Indian clinics where they fit the kids with glasses and dental work. Take them to dentists. Other than that their home condition still may not be acceptable to fit in among the white kids.

(Does anybody ever come to the schools, though? Like right here in Geary, to check their eyes?)

Yeah, there's a mobile service that comes down from there in town and they check all the kids and see to their needs, their physical examination and diagnosis and all those things. They keep proper care of them, but when they're gone, well they go, that's all.

Yeah. They get the list of them that needs help from the school. Then they take them to a dentist or this eye--

(Bobby: Then this mobile unit goes to the schools and that's where they do the check-up?)

Yeah. Yeah.

(Bobby: So in other words if the kids are in need of dental treatment or eye treatment, they'll get it?)

Yeah.

(Do they help any of the kinda kids that need; like, glasses, or tooth work?)

As many of 'em as they found that need them, they take care of them. Even adults, too.
