

thunder and tornado was coming their way, but it was so far away that it was remote to ever think that they were going to get anything that night. But, to their surprise, the noise grew louder and louder. And seemingly come closer and closer to them. They did not see a thing, but just before the noise was 'bout to fall upon them, silence fell over the atmosphere, and then a voice from the air asked the people what do you want. What may I do for you? We have asked for you because there's sickness in our village, lack of food, the children, the orphan children are crying for their mother, their father, and all and all we are experienced in the most difficult times of our lives. For this, we ask you for guidance. This was the answer that the Cherokee people, the medicine man gave to the voice in the air. The voice in the air then returned their answer, and said, all you have to do is look at the earth, look at the trees, look at the grass, and all of the plants that I have placed upon this planet. You will find the medicine if you will look. Again I will repeat, look to the earth, look to the grass, and trees, and all the plants that I have placed on this planet. You will find your medicine there. This was the answer that God gave to his people. And the answer that Indian people are following today, not Indian people in one location, but Indian people all throughout the Cherokee Nation.

End of Story

Balance of tape is blank or inaudible.