

too old and my memory quit me.

(But that's the only one you can recall?)

I may find up another one.

(How did they dress when they were in the 7th Cavalry?)

The Indians?

(Uh-huh. Did they--?)

They didn't draft them.

(No. The dress--clothes.)

(Mrs. Curley: How did they dress when they were in the 7th Cavalry?)

Oh, in regular uniforms.

(Have you got a picture up here?)

No, that ain't it, but that's another old picture though. General Scott used to be Chief of Staff. I had that picture but I don't know what become of it.

(You mean you had a picture of the scouts or--you had a picture of the scouts?)

Yeah. You could get a copy from Griswold. He'll give it to you. I got mine, Griswold give 'em to me. He give it to me but I lost it. People come in and carry 'em off, I can't keep 'em here.

(What year was this that he went out--hunting this killer?)

(Mrs. Curley: Do you know what year he went after this killer? What year did he go after that guy, you know?)

It might be a record of it in Griswold files. Bound to be.

(O.K. I'll get down there and check on it.)

Now, that's around 1895.

(About '95.)

Way back there.

(You know between what years he served in the 7th?)
