

we do every week. The Indians are doing great work in the church.
SPECIAL PRAYER MEETINGS ARE HELD FOR OCCASIONS SUCH AS BIRTHDAYS, SOLDIER'S RETURN, ETC.

(Is it on Sundays?)

Jenny: Sundays and sometimes Wednesday nights--what they call weekly prayer meeting. And sometimes they are called to have a special meeting, you know, what they call is a birthday prayer meeting or if a boy from where they are having a battle come home safely, why, they have thanksgiving prayer.

(And these would be in homes?)

Jenny: In the home or maybe in the church.

(If a family was going to have a prayer meeting for their son who came back from overseas, would they go to a certain minister and ask him to come?)

Jenny: Yeah, whoever they want to lead their prayer meeting. Anybody, whoever they want. And then they have the prayer meeting for this boy--or a, if he's just going overseas. Now when my grandson was going overseas to that battlefield, Vietnam, we called a prayer meeting before he went for people to pray for him, for him to come home safely. So we had a lot of peoples to come up. And then, I don't know, it's just our Indian custom. We love this boy and he's going to that battlefield and no telling what's going to happen, so in his honor, we give away. We give away blankets, some beaded things, maybe beaded moccasins. Some of our Indians like blankets. They really cost. Like blankets and shawls. Well, we give them to the friends that comes to be with us. And they do that in a powwow and then we do that when we have church. We had our meeting and then after the prayer meeting, we make sandwiches and drinks like
