

oh, I had it on the end of my tongue, that U. S. Marshal from Muskogee, oh I can't think of his name now.

(Well there was a lot of Indians went down to Male Seminary wasn't there?)

Oh yes. Gosh, they's a bunch of 'em.

(Do you remember old Samuel Starr?)

Yeah. Yeah, over at Jay?

(And the Mayes boys?)

Yeah. Yeah. I knew them. That old home, the oldest house over there is on that Mayes farm and its good yet. They kept it painted you know. Boy, its in good shape.

(Yeah, it's in good shape)

Yeah. Old Cullis Mayes, but I don't think Cullis daddy lived there. I forget the old man's name he run that big ranch.

(Yeah. There was Joel Mayes and Samuel B. Mayes)

That's us it. Boy Joel. I don't know, the old man Joel, it don't seem like it was though.

(Well then there was a Watt Mayes too. And then, well Lindsay Mayes still lives over there. You know Washie lives in Pryor.)

Yeah. I see them ever once in awhile, over there in the barber shop. He made a big scamp didn't he?

(He sure was a big one.)

I think Charley is the only one a living now. They plan -- laid it all on to him. There's a lawyer down at Tahlequah. He's a full-blood lawyer. I mean full-blood, and a good lawyer down there. They told the Wickliff boys, their cousin went, took them back and forth. And then by George, they wanted'em to give up, they'd give'em
