

with it. I know for instance--for I use the school--Cache. A member told me at a board meeting the school board asked the superintendent what he was going to do with a class that was coming up and it was a large class, I think there was about eighty in it--how he was making preparations in his school for this large class to go through. Well, you know what he said? He said "Well I'm not too worried about it because by the time they get in to high school, he said, most of the Indian students will have dropped out". Now he, this fellow said this to me in good faith. He said that by the time they get to high school most of the Indian students will be gone. Now is that a way to prepare for a school and yet we've got schools that are looking for students all over the country. Maybe we ought to get together and round up these students and take'em to the area where they want to keep their schools and are willing to help'em and see that they get a job in order to stay. But this is the kind of thing that we ought to educate ourselves on and this is what I am hoping we can do and maybe we can be of some assistance in these areas. (background talking) Just a minute, Boyce, I want to turn it over to you ---

Mr. Timmons: Oh you do. You are going to let me say something? I'm about to explode here. (laughter) Go ahead. When you're finished --

Ace: I am going to just let her speak and turn it over completely to you all.

Mr. Timmons: Oh you are. I thought you weren't going to let me say anything. I was about to jump up and carry a sign. (laughter)

Lady's voice: (words not clear) finances and clothing, the employment (not clear) while the student is going to college. Now can you appoint (static) And is there a way of appointing a chariman here or maybe in those areas?

Ace: Well this is what we want to discuss after we elect officers.

Lady: Have a committee of various -----
