

(Yeah)

And have it--I think there a little deeper down here.

(Uh-huh. Now they've got coal south of here. And back here west of here.)

Uh-huh

(Uh-huh)

I tell you where this outfit started, that's come up through here. As you come to Claremore there, you get about five miles up the road there and you can see where it started.

(That's where this coal vein started. And it came right on up through Chelsea and right on up north then.)

Yeah.

(Uh-huh)

There quite a bit of coal west of here too.

(Yeah)

There's some coal out here--out here by White Hill. It's just six foot under ground.

(Well. Now White Hill, how far is it out?)

Oh it's about six or seven miles.

(Uh-huh)

That's the old White Hill school house.

(Yeah. Well it's just a schoolhouse there at White Hill now.)

Yeah:

(Do they have a store there too?)

No I don't think they do.

(Old community there.)

Uh-huh. Well see when they--let it become a state. They lay this off in districts.

(Yeah.)
