

(Uh-huh)

Locust Grove. They ask me if I'd go. I said, "Sure I'll go." "Well," he said, "somebody be here in the morning after you." They didn't take me there that evening. So next morning about noon I guess. It was just a little before noon. They were driving a buggy and team.

(Yeah)

Come up from back of the hollow. Kind of an iron grey team that he had. That he was riding on. I know that's way--the first I saw them coming up. And I was all ready. And he take me in that hack, that buggy. Up there at, Locust. His brother, you know, Claude Chandler will tell you. You know he's the one come after me. And I started out. Stayed all night with him. Next morning he took me to the station depot. And put me on a train.

(Yeah)

To Fairland. And when they got to Fairland, there was another boy there. No, no they already, and had I guess--notified this man that works in there. And they told him where to go. You have to tell them going toward the east. Going to Wyandotte. I walked in. He helped me. There's another. Some more fellows helped me carry my little luggage I had. You know (not clear) I had.

(Yeah)

And I got on the that third train. I got off this side of. Went to Wyandotte. When I got down to Wyandotte, there was a black team, and a buggy there waiting for me. You know that man. Old Henry Pegg. He was one that was going to school there. Henry Pegg.

(Yeah)

And he uh--.

(Archie's brother.)

Yeah Archie's brother. He was one of them driving this black team. There he
