

(Hum)

That was the awfulest place to be when I went up there.

Mr. Thomas: (Name not clear) he went up there.

(Yeah I know him.)

Yeah.

(Yeah we fellows we was having a hard time in our day which way after your time but you fellows probably had it a lot harder then we did.)

Yeah. There was one boy that I worked with down, I believe his name was (Name not clear). Down the power house. We made our own electricity then.

(Uh-huh)

Them old dynamo engines still yet down there wasn't they?

(Yeah)

(Yeah still left.)

See we had steam then and we run them, power. And now it's all hooked up with high line.

(Yeah it's all--)

Got all them wires and steam line and everything running in a tunnel right along side there.

(Yeah side there.)

HOPE OTTO WAS AN ORPHAN AND WELL LIKED

Yeah. I know where they are. I worked there. There was a boy that worked down there with me they called Otto.

(Otto, yeah)

He married Miss Smith.

Mr. Thomas: Tucker

Tucker, yeah.

(Yeah).
