But they put them on market. We eat them. (Refers to meat.)

(Hum)

Uh-hum. Somebody maybe say nothing about it I guess. It hurts me even when they get on me.

(Hum)

Them ticks.

(Yeah I know I've gotten them. And they really hurt me.)

Uh-huh.

(Really poison)

I went down there at that game reserve last fall. Had little bitty ticks, got all over me.

(Well)

Uh-huh. That's the way they feel all the way home. Boy I scratch.

(Yeah)

When I got home I put some coal oil all over my body.

(Uh-huh)

I got shed of them. I don't know how they pick the wild game--this and that. I don't know how they ever do it. You know that old tick stays in there.

That's good fertilizer them leaves.

(Why sure)

Know wagon load of them leaves you know haul them. Put them in just pack it down.

(Uh-huh)
