

(Yeah. But you don't see them on the prairie anymore.)

Uh-huh. They light in these ponds right here.

(Yeah)

Two boys killed two the other day. Ducks, got them two ducks.

(Uh-huh)

That's the only ducks I've seen. I haven't seen any flying around.

(Well long time ago there used to be lots of them. Weren't they.)

Oh yeah, everybody farmed you know they had some geese on these creeks.

(Yeah, Uh-huh)

REMEMBERS WHEN EVERYONE BUTCHERED HOGS

Nobody farm now.

(That's right nobody farms anymore.)

They ain't nothing they can eat. They eat them old shods up there at the lake.

(Yeah)

They ain't fit to eat now.

(No they're not, no good.)

Taste like fish.

(Uh-huh. Well times have changed. Isn't it?)

Uh-huh. Yeah it is. Yeah. Everybody farmed. Everybody butchered a hog you know.

They had smoke houses. Ain't nobody got smoke houses now.

(No smoke houses.)

No meat.

(Uh-huh)

If you buy it in town it don't taste good. You know it don't.

RAISED SEVERAL KINDS OF CORN

(Static at this point--inaudible). Cultivate that land you know. I raise corn.

(Uh-huh)

I just lucked out of seed. I lost all the seed I had.
