

SIDE B

— and Robert ... and-- Some of them--most of them are dead now. Like Ray Blackbear's sister, Birdie. She went to school there.

(Were they about your age?)

Yes. I don't remember if May went to school down there--May Jay. I don't remember.

(Was that Claude's sister?)

Wife.

(How come did you go to the Cache Creek Mission? It's quite a way from where you were living--?)

They boarded me. When I went there, I stayed there. I boarded there.

(Did you have to pay to go there?)

I guess so. Government did that, I imagine.

(I think your sister told me one time that she went to this boarding school in Anglarko?)

She might have went to the Kiowa School for a while. I don't know how long.

(Fred's sister is Connie May Saddleblanket.)

(Why didn't she go there?)

I don't know.

(How come you changed to go to St. Patrick's, then?)

Well, the folks put me there.

(Was there any difference from the Cache Creek School?)

Not too much difference. Catholic school in a way is a little different. Down there at Cache Creek, on Sundays, they're pretty strict on Sundays. They're real Christian people. We go to church and Sunday School in the morning--they don't allow us to play on Sunday. But down here we go in the morning before breakfast at the Catholic school, we go in the chapel.
